-From the Editor's Desk

March, April, and May have been far from normal due to the Covid-19 pandemic. Because of the new normal of "social distancing" and the fact that The Quilt Basket is classified as a non-essential business, we altered our normal retail activities and suspended scheduled classes and events as mandated by the State of California. The store was staffed by management, which took the opportunity to catch up on inventory and never-ending paperwork, as well as planning for future classes.

As of the end of May and on into June and the balance of the year, we have resumed normal business hours, opened up (with limited enrollees) scheduled classes in the second half of May, and are scheduling future classes and events.

We will all get through this current crisis and we remain here to help you.

Be Safe and we hope everyone stays healthy!
